ABOUT OUR TEAM

The people who think like the threat.

We are a small, specialist team. Between us we have spent decades watching how hostile people plan, probe and exploit weak points. Now we use that experience to help organisations find their gaps before someone else does.

55 years of combined Metropolitan Police experience across the team	UK & IE supporting organisations across the UK and Ireland	0 cyber. We focus entirely on physical and human security.

Our expertise

Our team brings together operational experience from policing, counter-terrorism and corporate risk. Given the nature of the work, our specialists operate discreetly. Full credentials are shared with clients during engagement, under NDA where appropriate.

Behavioural detection & counter-terrorism

Spotting hostile intent early

Years of operational experience identifying hostile reconnaissance and suspicious behaviour in busy public spaces, now built into all of our training.

Physical security & testing

Finding the gaps first

Penetration testing and social engineering carried out the way a real intruder would try it, safely, legally and with full written authorisation.

Corporate risk & governance

Advice that works at board level

An understanding of how risk directors, COOs and boards make decisions, so our findings are clear, prioritised and easy to act on.

Training & awareness

Making it stick with your people

Practical, site-specific sessions for front-line staff and managers, from behavioural awareness to Martyn's Law readiness.

What we do

- Physical penetration testing: we test whether someone could get in, and how far they could get.
- Behavioural detection and awareness training: we teach staff what to notice and what to do about it.
- Martyn's Law readiness: assessments, advisory and training ahead of commencement.
- Social engineering assessments: we test how your people respond to someone who sounds convincing.
- Security advisory: independent, practical advice on your risks and priorities.

How we work

- Practical, not theoretical: our advice comes from real operational experience, not a template.
- Discreet: what we find about your organisation stays confidential, protected by NDA.
- Authorised and controlled: every test is scoped and signed off in writing before it starts.
- Plain English: findings your board and your front-line teams can both act on.
